

MACLEAN POWER SYSTEMS

A Maclean-Fogg Company

18, June 2007

Mr. Daniel Pervorse
ACCT
P.O. Box 47
Deerfield, IL 60015
847-945-0829

RE: MacLean Power Systems' Strandvise®

Dear Mr. Pervorse,

MacLean Power Systems has repeatedly communicated to ACCT, PRCA and other members of your industry that our product was not designed, nor is it intended for use in the ropes challenge course industry. This position was identified initially in our Advisory drafted in November of 2000 and again in May of 2007.

If you feel that this position has not been clear, let this letter serve as further notification and clarification that our product MUST NOT be used in the ropes challenge course industry. If ACCT or others within your industry continue to maintain their position that our products are okay to use or remain in use in the ropes challenge course industry, they do so at their own risk and against our advisories and recommendations. It is your responsibility to communicate this to everyone within your organization.

In closing, I wanted to note that this was the position that we communicated in November of 2000, and this position has not changed in the last seven years, and it is even more urgent today in light of the counterfeit, knock-off products that have made their way into the market.

Sincerely,

David A. Dembowski
Manager, New Product Development

cc: Steve Gustafson, PRCA
Mike Barker, PRCA

ACCTLetter06_2007.doc